Outstanding women represent the Glades

BELLE GLADE—Six local women were recently nominated by the Belle Glade Junior Woman's Club to represent the Glades Saturday when the Palm Beach County Commission on the Status of Women meets to honor women outstanding in a number of fields.

The meeting will take place in the form of a luncheon at noon at the Helen Wilkes Hotel in West Palm Beach. More than 100 women have been nominated by clubs from all over the county for the six categories of judging.

Junior Woman's Club member Charlda Sizemore said the luncheon will be a gathering of the most accomplished, talented and influential women in the county.

The Juniors chose, to represent the Glades, Mrs. Dolly Hand, Mrs. Ruth Wedgworth, Mrs. Miriam Burgess, Mrs. Sandra Chamblee, Mrs. Pat Stedham and Mrs. Bee Wood.

Mrs. Sizemore said Mrs. Wedgworth is respected and admired in the competitive farming industry and her "infinite business abilities" are evident by the prosperity of the companies over which she presides.

Mrs. Burgess was chosen for her outstanding contributions in the field of education, Mrs. Sizemore said.

"As headmistress of Glades Day School, she nurtured a school of 56 students into a thriving institution," Mrs. Sizemore said. "Her farsight, insight and true leadership abilities have been acclaimed by educators throughout the state."

Mrs. Chamblee was nominated under the category of community involvement. She is an enthusiastic and active

High price delays bid opening

BELLE GLADE—With bids coming in more than $20,000 more than anticipated, the City Commission delayed action Monday on awarding a contract to build a municipal building to be used by the Chamber of Commerce.

Architect Chester Cone, who designed the building, and anticipated a cost of $70,000 or less, advised the commissioners in a letter to consider the acceptance of a bid by Lutz Construction.

The Lutz bid was for $91,175 but Cone said there is an alternate bid which would put the price at $84,350.

Cone said the bids were higher than anticipated but a check with several recent projects in both the Glades and West Palm Beach areas reveals that all their jobs are exceeding estimated costs, "due generally to now prevalent inflated prices on both labor and materials."

He said that if the alternate bid is accepted on the Lutz offer, the saving of $6,825 would come from eliminating a terrace from the plans.

Further savings could be realized, Cone said, if off-street parking and concrete walks were eliminated, bringing the price down to as little as $79,500.

Cone said he felt that elimination of the terrace would not materially interfere with the satisfactory functioning of this facility. The walks and off-street parking would eventually need to be provided.

City Manager Robert Sanders said he had expected a representative of the Chamber of Commerce to be present at the meeting Monday night but when no one appeared, the commissioners decided to delay any action until the Chamber provides input.

Nat'l. Guard forms elite recon team

BELLE GLADE—A small, elite infantry reconnaissance team formed at the Belle Glade National Guard Armory is the first of its kind in the county and could be one answer to building morale, according to Sgt. Tom Pierson.

Pierson said the five-man unit is made up of a team leader, a combat medical corpsman and three riflemen, as well as two alternate and is attached to Co. B (P)-1st Batt., 124th Infantry Reg.

"This is something new," Pierson said. "We're trying to show the members military training is more than ho-hum and boring."

These are all volunteers and they're the cream of the crop."

Pierson said the team leader is Mike Stull and team members are Henry Jones, Jerry Johnson, Larry Johnson and Dean Terrell. He said that because of the team's unique flavor, one man is commuting from West Palm Beach to serve in it.

"In combat situations," Stull said, "we will be the first ones to make contact with the enemy. Our mission is to compile and gather all information on the enemy's troop strength, position, possible ready reserves and support artillery."

"Our secondary mission," he went on, "is the assessment of specific targets for demolition."

Stull said each of the volunteers has had at least two years combat time.

"We've been in training the last three months," he said. "We pulled two training operations in areas in the Glades and we have another training operation coming up Dec. 10 in the Lake Harbor area."

"This operation consists of a four mile forced march. The reconnaissance and assault of a specified target and the undetected evacuation of the area."

Merchants ask city help

BELLE GLADE—A delegation of merchants from Avenues A and B asked the City Commission for help Monday night to stop the practice for taxicabs taking farm workers out of the Belle Glade area to do their shopping.

The merchants said the taxis are hauling the workers as far as Miami to do their shopping but commissioners said there was little they could do to stop the practice.

Mayor Tom Altman and Commissioner Claud Tindall explained they couldn't stop the workers from going to Miami nor could they stop the taxis from taking them out of town.

Commissioners Kenneth Harris and William Grear said the only agency which could stop or slow down the practice would be the city police department where the workers are taken, and then only when the taxis picked up the workers for their returned trips.

The merchants also complained that taxi leaders are buying things to take back to the labor camps where the workers stay while in the area and selling the merchandise to the workers.

Another complaint was that on occasion, a farm worker will bring an article back to a store, without a sales slip, and demand the article be repaired or replaced when it is defective.

They said that when that has happened, and they say they can't repair or replace the item, and

Glades Day homecoming set for Friday

BELLE GLADE—Activities began early this week for the annual Glades Day School homecoming, which will take place Friday night at the Belle Glade campus.

Highlighting the celebration will be the Glades Day vs Miami Westminster football game and the crowning of the homecoming queen.

This year, three girls are vying for the honor of becoming homecoming queen. The coronation will take place during halftime.

Also on tap for the festivities are a parade at 7:15 p.m. Friday and a dance following the game for students and former students.

The candidates for homecoming queen are Monica Harris, Bobbi Lou Markham and Anna Rivas. Although the queen has been selected by a vote of the students, her identity will remain a secret until the crowning.

Six girls were nominated for the honor by a vote of the football team and of those six, including the three candidates and Lisa Hatton, Janie Priest and Kathy Prescott, three princesses were chosen by an all-stage vote of the student body.

Monica is the daughter of Kenneth and Janice Harris of Belle Glade. She is a senior and member of the Beta Club and annual staff. Bobbi Lou is the daughter of president, the Pep club, student council and the newspaper staff.

The princesses will be escorted by members of the football team during the crowning ceremony.

Sue Teets, Randy McCracken and Margo McCune are sponsoring the homecoming this year.

Wilford and Barbara Markham, is a senior and active on the student council, the Pep club, cheerleading, softball, basketball and the newspaper staff.

Anna is a senior and the daughter of Jose and Maria Rivas of Belle Glade and is a cheerleader. Beta club member and state vice Ken Buckner and crew rejoice! The buzzards have returned to Lake Harbor!

Actually, Florida Highway Patrol trooper Buckner and his family probably aren't rejoicing at having scads of turkey buzzards homesteading along the levee alongside their mobile home.

But they're back anyway, just like the swallows of Capistrano.

For the past several years, the buzzards have been roosting in the same spot just west of the park in Lake Harbor. Thousands of them arrive about this time of year and spend the winter months soaking up the Florida sun.

Where they come from, who knows? Where they go when summer arrives, again who knows? But for the next several months, Ken and family will have them for neighbors.

Ken lives in a mobile home at the park. It's a good point from which to sally out and set up to catch speeders. (Doubtless you've noticed the abundance of Troopers on US 27 between South Bay and Clewiston.)

Last year I questioned Trooper Ken about his relationship with the buzzards. "We kinda look forward to them," he said at that time. "So long as they keep their distance."

Moore Haven has Chalo Nitka, LaBelle Swamp Cabbage, Clewiston the Hendry County Fair, Okeechobee the Speckled Perch Festival and soon Belle Glade will have the Black Gold Jubilee.

Is it possible Lake Harbor should have the Turkey Buzzard Festival?

Glades Day's homecoming is this week but the Gators won't have a whole lot to celebrate so far as football goes.

Even though ranked sixth in the state Class A poll and boasting an 8-1 record, they aren't the district champions.

That honor belongs to Benjamin who defeated the Gators on their only "off" night this year by two points.

While Benjamin fielded a pretty good team this year, I believe that if schedules were compared, the Gators would be shown to be the better team all around.

It only takes one bad night to ruin an otherwise complete season and that's what happened this year to Byron Walker and his charges.

I can tell Christmas is approaching. Son Burke gets up to watch Spiderman each morning and notes during each toy commercial "I want one of those."

Then down at Sears Santa has already paid an advance visit to long lines of youngsters and tonight, he'll be at Royals.

Christmas is to me, and millions of others, the best time of the year. And it looks like the season gets underway earlier each year.

This weekend promises to be a barrel of laughs. Florida Sportsman magazine has an annual field day for scribes who sometimes write for them and this year I've made up my mind to be there.

It'll be at the Sandpiper Inn at Stuart and the host of outdoor writers in attendance will likely include such folks as Ross Parsons of the Palm Beach Times, Herb Allen of the Tampa Tribune and Bill Miller of the Ft. Myers News-Press.

They tell me at these events Friday night is generally devoted to relaxing and Saturday to fishing. Since I consider fishing relaxing it looks like a very comfortable weekend.

A lesson in negative voting

When we made recommendations two weeks ago on which proposed revisions to the state constitution we thought were worthwhile and which we thought weren't, we made the observation that, "When you're not sure, vote against it."

Either a lot more people around the state than we're aware of read and heeded those words or they already felt that way. The result was that not a single issue passed.

There have already been any number of analysts attempting to come up with a reason why none of the proposals on the ballot were carried but until we're convinced otherwise, we'll maintain there were simply too many people who didn't understand the propositions.

Oh, sure, probably everyone understood one or more of them; but they probably weren't the same ones. And all the voters probably understood the wording of some of the propositions without understanding the ramifications of them.

Which is nothing to be ashamed of. There probably isn't anyone in the state who can truthfully say he or she understands all nine of the provisions and what they'd mean to the state's future.

Even in the massive negative vote, there is probably a lesson here. The lesson could be that anytime there are as many changes offered to the constitution as there were a week ago, there are too many changes for the voters to comprehend them.

Which leads one to question the wisdom of appointing a Congressional Revision Commission at any time to consider changes to the state's charter.

As cumbersome and resistant to change as the old method was, which was the offering of revisions to the voters by the state legislature, perhaps it was better than attempting to flood the ballot with too many changes.

Perhaps it's time to rethink the whole concept of a revision commission and it may even be time to exercise that part of the constitution.

Maybe the old way is better.

Celebrating

The suggestion Monday night to hold a barbeque to mark the end of the city recreation department's first flag football season is fitting if for no other reason than the fact the program may have marked a cultural turnaround for the city.

So how can one relate football and culture? Simple, when one considers this program has drawn together the two predominate races in the city in a way no other program has ever seemed able to do.

This is one program where the emphasis noticed by outsiders hasn't been on the winners and losers. What more observers are talking about is the way black and white citizens have come together to have a good time.

If the program proves to be the first of what could be a series of steps the city takes in getting people together, for whatever purpose, it could be the most important cultural event in the history of the city.

And if that's the case, a barbeque seems almost inadequate as a means of celebration.

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

Anybody out there been klomged lately? Don't tell me you ain't never cause just about everybody I know has been at one time or another.

A "klong", for those who haven't heard the term yet, is a heart attack of the nasties. It's the feeling you get about the time you're ready to dig into a beautiful dinner at Nando's and you realize you invited guests to dinner at your place...back in Belle Glade.

It's the feeling you get when you're working for a newspaper, covering a race riot, driving in the combat zone and y'hear a yell, "There's one Get 'em!" and you look through your open car window in time to see a brickbat sailing gracefully your way.

All you can do in either case is to sit there with a look of horror on your face cause you know you just schlepiped in it and no matter what you do and no matter what excuse you come up with, you're still gonna come out looking like an idiot...a dead or hopelessly maimed idiot at that.

I think the term was coined by the same person who coined the word "Zorcon". A zorcon (I knew you were gonna ask) is a 16-ounce beer in a 12-ounce can.

One way a lot of people have been klomged lately is to return to your parked car, with the engine you left running, and find when you reach for the door latch that the door latch, along with the rest of the car, is gone.

Or come in late at night, being real quiet so you don't wake your roommate, going on into the bathroom and taking a shower and find out the next morning that while you were in the shower some dude came in the door you left unlocked and heisted your roomy's wallet, pants and all.

Couple more klongs like that and you develop a downright distrust for the human race so far as honesty is concerned.

Three or four klongs like that and the average Joe Schlep from that "turkey" if you're more into street talk (Yiddish) is gonna do something about the situation...like getting an equalizer.

That something can take the form of bigger and better locks, a big ole dawg or the latest piece of hardware sent down the pike by Messers Smith, and Wesson and Samuel Colt.

Take 'em one at a time.

Never did think much of the idea of putting some of these expensive locks on a trailer home. Shoot, somebody wants in bad enough and he'd just yank the door off the hinges.

That'd be something like putting a $75 padlock on a door held open by 30 cent hinges. Besides, even if you do have a pretty hefty door, you put on all those locks and chains and it'd be my luck some mugger's been locked in with me...either that or the house catches fire and I burn up because I can't get out.

I did think once about the possibility of getting me a dawg but he'd probably bite me first for getting in the burglar's way after the dawg woke me up.

Besides, I figger if that's the case, I'd rather get me a good-sized orangutan and put a sign around his neck reading, "If I want your opinion, I'll beat it out of you."

That oughta be a deterrent. I can just see breaking into someone's house in the dead of night and coming across something bigger and uglier than I am. Prob'ly have just about enough time to ask the owner if he has a back door, hear the answer is no and come back with, "Where", with a pause for emphasis, "do you want one?"

Which leaves weaponry...and I ain't talking about a slabside 45.

I much prefer the idea of putting a tiger's pit with punji stakes in the living room, a couple claymore mines in the kitchen, a few burning betties in the hallway and two missiles in the bedroom, guided by the heat of the burglar's body.

And if they make it through all that, I can always come back with the same question asked earlier: "Where do you want one?"

Policemans Ball is this Saturday

BELLE GLADE—The Bernie Lee Orchestra, a midnight buffet, door prizes and dancing until 1 a.m. will mark the annual Policemans Ball, which gets underway at 9 p.m. Saturday at Elks Lodge 1716 at 300 SE Ave. E.

Tickets, costing $25 per couple, will be available at the door for those who haven't bought theirs yet but who wish to attend.

This is the only fund-raising event of the year for the Belle Glade Peace Officers Benevolent Association (not to be confused with the Palm Beach County Police Officer's Association).

The funds derived from the ball, according to President M.J. "Speedy" Spooner, "are a great help towards obtaining life insurance for each member of this Peace Officers Association."

"It also financially assists the law enforcement officers," Spooner said, "who are injured in the line of duty or due to long illnesses which make them unable to support their families, deserving help to local charities and organizations. These donations are made through a vote by a majority of the membership."

Spooner said the door prizes include a Trailways bus ticket for two to the Holiday Inn on Fort Myers Beach for two days and nights, a black and white television, a set of luggage and a slow cooker.

"We look forward to seeing you and thanking you again for your support," Spooner said.

Carter's sugar policy to be announced

CLEWISTON...A major statement regarding the Carter Administration's position on sugar policy is expected when Dr. Howard Hjort addresses members of the Florida Sugar Cane League, Inc., at their annual meeting Monday in Clewiston.

Dr. Hjort, Director of Economics, Policy Analysis and Budget, U.S. Department of Agriculture, is a prominent sugar policy advisor in the Administration. He is expected to give the industry a preview of what may happen when Congress convenes in January, regarding sugar legislation.

In the last Congress, the sugar industry was unsuccessful in its attempt to get an act passed which would stabilize sugar prices for consumers and protect domestic sugar production. Industry members hope Dr. Hjort's visit will develop into a working relationship with the Carter Administration which will benefit all the effected parties.

"We feel Dr. Hjort will be better able to understand our industry and its problems after a first-hand look at us," said Dalton Yancey, general manager of the Florida Sugar Cane League.

All members of the media are cordially invited to attend the general luncheon meeting which will begin at noon at the Clewiston Inn.

TAKE NO CHANCES WITH YOUR EYES

Most people do not give their eyes the best possible care. To further complicate the danger, some unscrupulous promoters offer eye products that delay proper treatment, even though causing no immediate harm. Be wary of mail-order medicine men.

Don't be misled by claims that "magic" salves or drops will dissolve cataracts. You ultimately save no money when getting improperly fitted glasses by mail. Depend on your local licensed supplier. And, if your eyes need treatment let no one but a physician tell you what to do.

BELLE GLADE—Funeral services for Alden W. Brooks, 58, of 150 N.W. Third St. will be held at 2 p.m. today at Mixson Funeral Home Chapel with the Rev. Aaron Pettry of the Pentecostal Holiness Church Worship Center officiating.

Grant made on research of cane smut

WASHINGTON D.C.—A $357,000 grant to supplement private research to combat sugar cane smut was part of a bill signed recently by President Carter recently that more than triple the federal funds available for agricultural research.

Al Cummings, in the office of U.S. Senator Richard Stone, said $259,700 of the $375,000 has been assigned to the Canal Point USSC research facility to attempt to come up with varieties of cane resistant to smut.

Cummings said another $25,000 has been assigned to a research facility in Corvallis, Ore., where smut on wheat has been fought for years, and the final $25,800 is going to another smut laboratory operated by the USDA in Beltsville, Md.

Sugar cane smut was first discovered in Florida in early July in a field in Hendry County. A thorough survey performed immediately after that indicated the smut had already spread over a wide area in that county and in small pockets in other areas in the Glades.

The United States was the last sugar cane producing country in the world which smut hadn't attacked before the discovery in July.

A preliminary report issued jointly by the Agricultural Research and Education Center here and the USDA Field Research Station in Canal Point indicated at least three varieties of cane commonly planted in the Glades are extremely susceptible to the fungus.

Other programs funded in the bill included $64.3 million for control of brucellosis, a contagious cattle disease; $1.9 million for applied research on fire ant control; $750,000 for control of harmful weeds, of which $200,000 is designated for a cooperative program with Florida for hydrailla control.

BELLE GLADE—Members of the Florida Council on Conservation and Environment held their regular monthly meeting at the Holiday Inn here and many took advantage of the locale to tour the farming area and the Glades Sugar House. The statewide organization is made up of representatives of various agencies, groups, organizations and industries interested in conservation and the environment. Following the Council's business

The tour left the Holiday Inn at 8 a.m. Tuesday, visiting Vinegar Bend Farms, Duda Farms, East Shore Pump Station and Runion Village before hearing several presentations in the meeting room of the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida, Inc., which sponsored the tour along with the Florida Sugar Cane League (FSCL).

Harmon Shields, director of the state Department of Natural Resources, and representatives of the Florida Petroleum Council, Florida Power & Light and the Florida Farm Bureau made the tour.

Representatives of the Florida Audubon Society, the Sierra Club and the Florida Wildlife Federation attended the Monday meeting but declined to make the tour.

At the Cooperative, Dr. Joseph Orsenigo, director of research for the FSCL, made a slide presentation on the history of the Everglades and a presentation on an ambient air quality program.

Cooperative President George Wedgworth spoke on the history and status of environmental programs undertaken by the sugar industry. Wedgworth is chairman of the FSCL Environmental Committee.

Doug Bourique, environmental coordinator for the FSCL, made a slide presentation on the water quality control studies conducted by the League.

Following the tour, the council members were given a conducted tour of the mill and were guests of the cooperative and the FSCL for lunch.

police officers have been called in to help clear the matter up, officers have sometimes advised the workers to shop elsewhere.

Tindall told the merchants that when that happens, the merchants should immediately notify Police Chief Bill Mathis and, if they aren't satisfied then, they should contact City Manager Robert Sanders. The merchants said they had taken neither step.

Tindall said he would talk to Captain Frank Fogleman of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office on behalf of the merchants to see if the Sheriff's Department can do anything about the first two complaints.

Trailways is back

BELLE GLADE—Trailways Bus Line re-started bus service to the Glades area Wednesday, the first time since Oct. 31 when the company stopped service in the face of a strike.

Bill Banks, manager of the local Trailways station, said he had no details as of Tuesday but that the labor problems had been resolved and the line would begin its regular two-buses a day service.

Banks said the four stops per day begun during the interim by Glades Motor Lines would continue. The Fort Myers based company began its operation during the strike.

Devils tie conference championship

PAHOKEE—Friday night's game between the Pahokee Blue Devils and Cardinal Newman was one that most coaches would like to forget.

Bad weather and the Blue Devil's mistakes could have turned the game around at any time. But they didn't and Pahokee won, 12-9.

The game gives the Blues Devils certain tie for the Suncoast West Conference title. But coach Antoine Russell's team will have to beat the Glades Central Raiders Friday to keep the title from being shared with Atlantic.

In their game against Cardinal

Newman in Cooley Stadium, the Blue Devils got off to a slow start, not scoring until the second quarter. The team's first possession ended with a fumble after driving 34 yards.

Cardinal Newman made the first score of the second quarter with a field goal by Joe Bergquist.

But the Blue Devils retaliated with a 54 yard scoring drive which ended with an unusual touchdown play. Pahokee quarterback Ronnie Osborne attempted to hand off to Sam Owens from the Cardinal Newman 2-yard-line, but it was fumbled. Osborne tried to pick up the ball and run with it only to kick it into the end zone where it was picked up by tackle Lonnie Pendergast as the first half ended.

The conversion pass failed, but the Blue Devils had a 6-3 lead.

Pahokee fortified its lead in the second half with its second and last touchdown of the game. Blue Devils running back Sylvester Kelly ran 50 yards of a 63 yard drive to set up a 27-yard touchdown pass from Osborne to Osmond Edwards.

Newman made its final score late in the fourth quarter when quarterback Tony Walker passed five yards to Todd Johnson. The team tried an on-side kick in an attempt to recover the ball, but it was fumbled by the Blue Devils, who ran out the final 33 seconds of the game.

After the game, Russell complimented Osborne on completing eight of 19 passes.

"I don't think you will find a better quarterback in Florida," he said. He can really throw the ball and if it was dry tonight he would have shown you that."

Statistically, the Pahokee offense accumulated 150 rushing yards and 113 passing yards. Cardinal Newman had 80 yards rushing and 110 yards passing.

Russell attributed his team's strong defense to holding back Newman and maintaining good field position for the Blue Devils.

"Our defense did a good job tonight," Russell said. "They held us out in those tough spots and got us really good field position the whole night."

The Pahokee Blue Devils final game of the season is against the rival Glades Central Raiders Friday night at Belle Glade. That game begins at 8 p.m. at Lair Field in Pahokee.

The Blue Devil's currently have a 7-2 overall record and a 5-1 conference mark. If it beats Glades Central Friday, the Pahokee team will take the Suncoast West Conference title.

Are Raiders the champs

Rowe decision awaited

BELLE GLADE—A favorable decision this morning by Circuit Judge Tom Johnson, coupled with a win against Pahokee Friday night, could mean a chance for the Glades Central Raiders to scoop up all the marbles on the block.

Judge Johnson is being asked at 9:30 a.m. for a declaratory judgment and temporary injunction which would affirm the eligibility of Raider running back Johnny Rowe for the entire season, nullifying the forfeitures of the first two games.

The removal of the forfeitures would automatically give the Raiders the District 14AAA championship they earned in a 21-6 win over Atlantic and an 11-3 win over Cardinal Newman, but that would not be all.

Because the forfeited games were both conference games, Glades Central would also have a shot at winning the Suncoast conference West title because, if the forfeits are removed from their record, the Raiders would be the only team with only one conference loss.

But that's only if Glades Central beats Pahokee, who right now leads the conference with only one loss to Suncoast.

To confuse the issue, however, there is still the question of what would happen as a result of last week's game with North Shore being called off two nights in a row because of a poor field.

North Shore, also a Suncoast Conference West member, is attempting to reschedule their game with the Raiders for next Wednesday, Nov. 22 but Raider Coach Ben McCoy pointed out Monday that if the injunction is granted, Glades Central won't be able to play North Shore on Nov. 22 because they would have to play Suncoast in the regional playoff two days later, and there would be no way to play the game after the playoffs have begun.

"I don't think we'd have to forfeit the game," McCoy said, "because it wasn't our fault the game was postponed." McCoy said the Suncoast High School field was available for use Friday night and McCoy also offered the use of the Glades Central field.

"It's their problem," McCoy said.

Glades Central Assistant Principal Hugh Brady, secretary of the conference executive committee, said he didn't know how the North Shore game will be resolved but said it would almost certainly be done at the executive committee level.

Both Brady and McCoy said they didn't want to second-guess anyone on the final decision and that, in any case, the question won't arise unless Judge Johnson gives a favorable ruling.

The suit is being filed by T.J. Cunningham, on behalf of Johnny Rowe and the Glades Central Athletic Council.

Cunningham, a West Palm Beach attorney, said he is asking a temporary injunction requiring the defendant, the Florida High School Activities Association (FHSAA), the principal of Suncoast and the principal of Atlantic to postpone the regional playoff game until a final decision can be made.

At the same time, Cunningham said he is asking for a declaratory judgment to determine whether Rowe is a resident of Belle Glade and whether he was eligible to play in the first two games against Atlantic and Jupiter and declare Glades Central the district champions.

The Raiders next face Pahokee High School at 8 p.m. Friday at Lair Field in Pahokee.

Gator's defense

cited in victory over Moore Haven

BELLE GLADE—The Glades Day Gators readied for their homecoming celebration this week by knocking off a surprisingly tough Moore Haven team Friday 23-6.

The Terriers, plagued early in the season by the boycott of black students and athletes over a busing dispute, managed to keep the Gators' defense busy but like the Gators, could get little going on offense.

"We had a terrible night for our offense," said Gator coach Byron Walker. "We could only get 100 yards rushing the entire evening."

But that was more than ample as Moore Haven could not even manage a yard in the right direction. The Terriers were minus six for the evening.

Walker's defense was his bright spot, however. For the first time since the opening game, star safety Quique Echave was back in action following a shoulder injury. His presence was felt.

Echave scored two touchdowns, one on an interception, got two more on the opening game, star safety Quique Echave was back in action following a shoulder injury. His presence was felt.

The only Terrier touchdown came in the fourth quarter when a halfback option pass connected for 65 yards. It was the first time the Terriers have scored on Glades Day in three years.

The game began with the Terriers putting the ball into the air but Echave intercepted and ran back 33 yards for the first Gator touchdown. Mark Foster's kick was good and the Belle Glade school was ahead 7-0.

In the second quarter, the Gators and Terriers swapped the ball back and forth with Glades Day's deepest penetration down to the Terrier 22. From there, Foster planted a field goal between the uprights and at halftime, the score was 10-0.

In the third quarter, Tyson made his interception and lumbered down to the Moore Haven two before being brought down and Nacho Bueno did the scoring honors and Foster tacked on the point after.

Early in the fourth quarter, the Terriers surprised the Gators with the halfback option pass, but the touchdown was really academic. Echave added six more points late in the game when he caught a pass from Bueno and ran the rest of the way for a 42 yard touchdown. The kick was no good.

Throughout the evening, the Gators suffered from the fumbles, allowing the ball to slip free five times but losing it only twice. Glades Day racked up seven first downs to the Terrier's three and 46 yards passing to Moore Haven's 103.

This week, the Gators take on Miami Westminster and will celebrate homecoming at the local field.

Westmar assisted by area youths

LE MARS, IOWA—Two former Glades Central High School football players who played under Coach Ed Werneke have helped the Westmar College Eagles to their best season record since 1968 when they were 9-0.

One of them is Ron Bailey, 5'10" 160-lbs. and the other is "Tim" Ingram, 5'11" 180-lbs. Both Glades Central players are freshmen playing reserve linebacker positions.

Last year the Eagles finished the season with a 2-8 record, but this year, under new Head Coach Glenn Jagodzinski, the Eagles are 7-2 with one game left.

Westminister loss gives Benjamin title

The three-way tie in the district 79A championship was broken this past weekend in a way that surprised almost everybody and gave Benjamin top berth and a chance at the playoffs.

Glades Day, Ft. Lauderdale and Benjamin were tied for first place by virtue of their all having lost one district game and most sports observers felt the championship would be decided by a vote from the six district principals.

But that was not to be. West-

Thinclads qualify for state

BELLE GLADE—The Glades Central cross country tolades won fourth place in the Region 4AAA meet Saturday at John Prince Park in Lake Worth to become the first Glades Central team to qualify for the state meet.

The state meet will be held at Sandalwood Junior Senior High School in Jacksonville, with the Raiders beginning their three-mile run at 10 a.m.

Robert O'Neal was once again the fastest Raider runner, finishing the regional meet in fourth place with a time of 16:36. Coach Willie McDonald said O'Neal qualified both as an individual and as a team member.

Individuals had to finish in the first four, as did teams. The Raiders placed fourth out of a total of 12 schools participating in the regional meet. Other Raiders qualifying to join the team were Richard Ford, who finished 22nd with a time of 18:05, Patrick Raymond, who finished 23rd with a time of 18:10, Willie Tyler, who finished 25th in 18:11, Bobby Brereton, 27th in 18:21, Levell Moreland in 45th in 19:08 and Renard Bennett in 58th in 20:10.

The Sandalwood High School event will be the 33rd Annual Florida High School State Cross Country Championship Meet.

Taking it form the Top

By David T. Evans

Maybe its old fashioned but I am glad to be alive and healthy on this Thanksgiving Day, 1978.

Thanksgiving Day is the only holiday which is not automatically celebrated. The Congress in its wisdom decided this years ago. The President must proclaim a day of Thanksgiving each year. Unfortunately the proclamation is hard to find. The Belle Glade Municipal Library could not find a copy of it nor could the Junior College. I was saved by the mail which brought a magazine which carried it.

Perhaps it is symbolic that we take much for granted - food, clothing, shelter, health. Our forefathers didn't or couldn't. They had to bring their clothes over on a cold, wet, tiny ship from Europe. The food was to be grown on rocky soil. The houses had to be built of logs hewn from trees felled by hand axes. It makes a difference.

There are many more things for which we are thankful or should be thankful - peaceful elections, paved roads (we complain if they are bumpy) health facilities, doctors, nurses, police protection and so on.

The same factor is true today as it was in 1621. God blessed us and our forebears. Therefore, let us make our own proclamation. Let us proclaim that we are thankful by using our resources carefully and sharing with each other. Please pray to God that we are thankful. Let us realize that what we have is not our due, but a blessing from God who guides and protects us. Let us pray that others will be blessed so that they may share also.

May God Bless you
Thanksgiving, 1978.

Putting forth a Real effort

A child's first attempts at printing require deep concentration and great effort. However, with patience and practice he becomes more adept and lettering is easier. Then he is ready for the next step, learning to write.

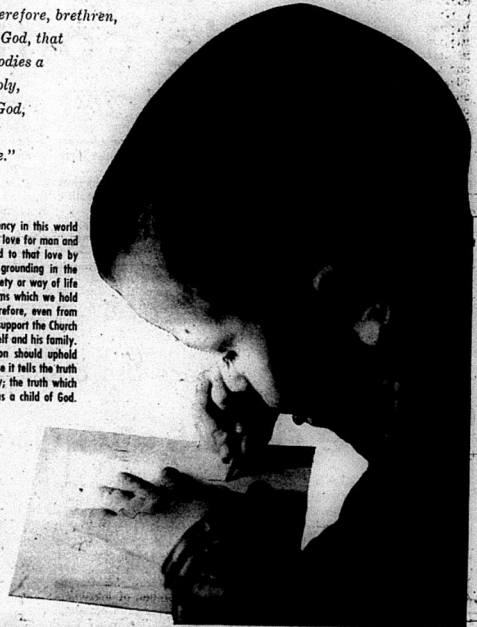

The Lord expects us to put forth an effort to improve ourselves.

"I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy,
acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the traditions which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Rice again substantial crop; mill is being built

With approximately 100 acres of rice being harvested in Hendry County this year, the planning for more than 3,000 acres next year plus the proposed construction of a rice mill south of Clewiston, rice appears to be a windfall to sugar cane growers, water conservation and area economy.

In related stories in this issue, readers will find that rice has been grown in South Florida as far back as the 1880's, of the proposed construction of a rice plant south of Clewiston on SR 832, and the possibility that rice cultivation will help reduce pollution of water in conservation areas.

Without a great deal of fan-fare, Reynolds and Thomas (Carlos Reynolds and C.A. "Mutt" Thomas) in partnership with Al Ramirez and Anibal Gonzalez planted some 70 acres of rice south of Clewiston and approximately two miles east of the Blumberg Grade. The rice has ideally matured and is considered by knowledgeable rice growers to be of excellent quality and quantity, with the yield being approximately 4,500 pounds per acre.

Ramirez, Gonzalez and Bob Bass also have 80 acres of rice in the same general area.

The rice is being harvested by contract with Seminole Sugar, who also have 140 acres planted this year, and by Charles Hilliard and Willie Lee. Seminole Sugar uses a John Deere harvester with track type flotation while Hilliard and Lee are using a Allis Chalmers harvester with large rubber tire flotation. Both machines are performing nicely, according to Ramirez.

Rice is a 120 crop. The first 30 days are dry and the next 60 days of growth require flooding after which the land is allowed to gradually dry out for harvesting. The low much land of south Florida is ideal for rice growing, as the soil is fertile and a plentiful water supply is available when needed, Ramirez said.

While rice is being looked at favorably as a money crop, the primary purpose for rice is its use as a rotation crop for sugar cane land. Sugar cane has to be replanted periodically and the land is generally flooded to help kill worms and other cane damaging pests.

Ramirez says that the cane land scheduled for rotation can be plowed up, planted with rice, flooded, harvested, harvested a second time from the same stand and stubble with approximately 50% yield, and the land prepared for sugar cane again for fall planting.

Ramirez and his father-in-law, Anibal Gonzalez, were instrumental in getting rice started again in the area. With previous rice experience, they were able to convince Reynolds and Thomas that rice would be profitable as a cover crop. The initial crop has been so successful that the planting of some 3,000 acres is being planned for next year, Ramirez said. "In fact, we have created a rice division and have retained Silvio Fernandez as division foreman," he said.

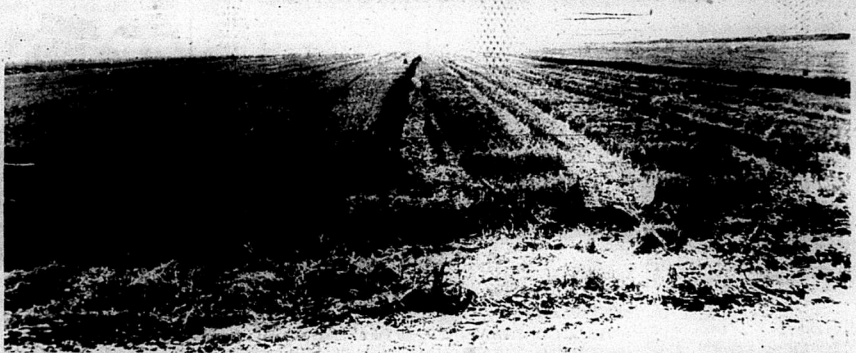

The success of the rice crops in South Florida this year plus the proposed acreage next year has resulted in attracting rice processors to the area to build a mill. This year the crop is being harvested and will be dried by Seminole Sugar. After that, it will be shipped to Liberty Rice Mill in Caplin, Louisiana for processing and sale. The processor in Louisiana buys the rice at his door. The same situation is planned here where the grower will deliver the rice to the mill where it is purchased, processed and sold retail by the mill owners, Ramirez continued.

In addition to the proposed 3,000 acres of rice next year by Reynolds and Thomas, Seminole Sugar is planning to increase their acreage to 600 acres and Bass and Ramirez are planning an additional 500 acres.

The John Deere harvester is capable of harvesting 40 acres of rice a day under ideal conditions however 20-25 acres a day is much more realistic. Several additional harvesters have been ordered to handle the crops next year, Fernandez said.

A "by-product" of the rice itself is the possible use of the rice stalks for use as litter.

Optimism is high that rice will provide a number of ingredients that will help the area economy... employment, utilization of fertile land, water conservation and revenue to the growers.

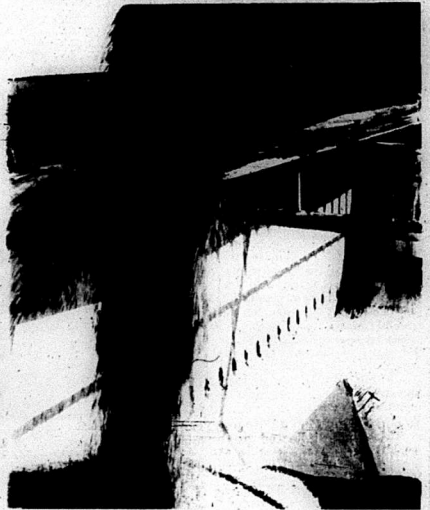

COMMERCIAL GROWN RICE is again making its presence known in South Florida after more than 20 years of only experimental growth. This 70 acre field is being grown east of the Blumberg Grade and South of Clewiston by Mutt Thomas, Carlos Reynolds, Al Ramirez, and Anibal Gonzalez. The yield is excellent and the quality is good.

MARCOL ALVAREZ, ANIBAL GONZALEZ and Silvio Fernandez stand in the waist high rice. All three men have extensive rice growing experience and will be working closely with the development of the rice industry in South Florida with Reynolds and Thomas.

THE RICE FLOWS from the harvester into the semi-trailer and is transported to Seminole Sugar for drying and shipment to a rice mill.

THE RICE STUBBLE STANDS approximately 30 inches high after the initial harvest. Silvio Fernandez, rice division foreman, says that another harvest is possible about 60 days after the first one with approximately 50% yield.

CHARLES HILLIARD and Willie Lee use an Allis Chalmers harvester which uses a large tire type of flotation gear. Both harvesters have proven satisfactory, according to Al Ramirez, sugar-cane and rice superintendent for Thomas and Reynolds.

Rice has benefits other than profit for farmers

Could reduce need to backpump

George Snyder, of the University of Florida Agricultural Research and Education Center in Belle Glade, recently addressed a civic club where he gave a brief history of rice growing's first appearance in South Florida in the 1950s.

Snyder said that some sugar cane growers are turning to rice as a means of supplementing the cost of flooding fields in the summer. One of the spinoffs of the rice program could be the reduction of backpumping of nutrient laden runoff water into water storage areas. The water would be retained in the rice fields which could help eliminate pollution to potential water supplies.

Snyder said that rice has been grown successfully in the everglades since the 1950s. But after a strike early in the program it was not a cover crop to be plowed under at the beginning of each sugarcane season - not as a grain crop.

Last year marked the first year local growers raised rice to send to market since the disease struck. "Seminole Sugar had a good grain harvest," he explained, adding that Gulf and Western, which also grew rice in limited areas, produced excellent yields.

Snyder said the chief reason for growing rice in canefields during the summer is to control water weeds which can crop up while fields are flooded.

The flooding benefits sugarcane by controlling insects, disease, nematodes and dry land weeds, stops land subsidence and improves tilth.

Sugarcane farmers who first grew rice in their fields during the '50s recognized the supplemental income potential of the crop and may have continued to produce it for grain had it not been for the oriental disease.

Snyder explained that it was the first time the disease had ever struck rice in the United States, so it was destroyed to keep it from spreading to major rice producing areas in Louisiana.

"The next year it showed up elsewhere," he said, "but that act of (destroying the previous year's crops) eliminated rice in the Glades (as a grain crop) for 20 years."

Part of the reluctance of farmers to produce grain crops stems from the lack of a rice mill in this area, Snyder explained. With the price of raw rice about half that of milled rice, shipping prices of raw rice can significantly affect profits.

If last year's crops are any indication, the future of rice crops as a source of supplemental income looks good. The average profit realized last year was about $100 per acre (based on a 4,000 pound per acre yield), he said.

"The mill people are scratching their heads trying to figure out why Florida rice was of so good quality," Snyder mused.

Those crops were not without problems, however. Seminole Sugar had problems with drying the grain which reduced the usable yield. And the second crop harvested from the first year's plants was of poor quality.

Growing rice "is not all gravy," Snyder admitted. Aside from the weather (it can't be too hot too cold), sugarcane borers can attack rice. And since the borers actually like the rice stalks better than the cane, some farmers have questioned whether rice crops could increase the problems with the dreaded parasites in sugarcane.

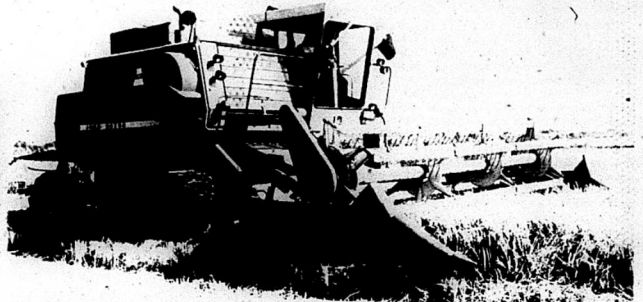

But Snyder argued against that contention, saying that it's the sugarcane that infects the rice with the borers.

The Belle Glade soil scientist noted that rice will never replace sugarcane as the prime crop of the glades area. "It is not here to replace a crop, but rather supplement (farmers incomes) and offset the cost of flooding (sugarcane)."

Dr. Tom Sommers, one of the original scientists to study rice production in the glades during the '50s, agreed with Snyder's points. "To me, rice would be the greatest thing to happen to sugarcane," he said, adding that the advantages outweigh the disadvantages of growing the grain. "The big problem now is soil insects, and rice would control those."

SEMINOLE SUGAR IS ONE of two firms contracting the harvest of rice. Seminole uses a John Deere harvester equipped track type flotation gear. The tracks are supplemented with timber extensions. The harvester trips the rice heads, separates the grain from the foliage and spreads the foliage out the back into the field stubble while the grain is stored in a bin until unloaded into trailers for transportation.

Rotenberger permits are issued

200 special permits have been issued for the antlerless deer hunt on the Rotenberger Wildlife Management Area in southwest Palm Beach County.

The special hunt, which will run from Nov. 14 through Nov. 19, was approved by the Game & Fresh Water Fish Commission in an effort to improve the overall deer situation in the area.

"High water levels have concentrated the Rotenberger deer herd in the elevated northern section of the area," advised Major Louis F. Guiney, the Commission's Regional Manager. "This high deer density has led to acute parasitism which is in the critical range."

According to the Southeastern Cooperative Wildlife Disease Study, a parasite count of over 1,500 indicates an overpopulation of deer. Studies conducted over the last five months by Commission biologists indicate that parasite levels in Rotenberger deer have been steadily increasing and have exceeded safe limits for two months. "The latest count was over 7,500," said Guiney.

"An antlerless deer hunt is necessary," he said, "in order to reduce population density and relieve competition for food sources. If deer numbers are not reduced, a die-off may occur due to parasite burdens and malnutrition."

Because of these special circumstances, the Commission has closed the Rotenberger Area to dogs and to motorized equipment, including off-road vehicles and airboats, because of the additional stress vehicles could place on the weakened deer herd. "The welfare of the deer has our highest priority," Guiney said. "The deer are already in poor condition and we don't want to lose more than necessary."
